THE SELLER

The account holder who accepts

1. Who is who

This agreement is between Charisma Design, trading as Rekhu ("Rekhu"), and the account holder who accepts it ("you", the seller). It applies in addition to the Rekhu Terms. Where the two differ on selling, this agreement wins.

You sell through Rekhu as a designer, a photographer or both, as chosen when accepting. The sections for a role apply only when you chose that role.

2. Your seller account and Stripe

Payouts run through Stripe Connect. Stripe collects your identity, tax details and bank account on its own pages and keeps them; Rekhu never sees your bank details. You agree to Stripe's Connected Account Agreement when Stripe asks.

You keep your seller profile (public name and link) accurate. It is shown on what you sell.

3. Rekhu sells, you earn a royalty

Rekhu sells a licence to the buyer in its own name and on its own receipt, collects the price and handles VAT and refunds. You never invoice a buyer and a buyer never invoices you.

For every sale you earn a royalty of 70 % of the price paid, excluding VAT, or 80 % when the item is exclusive to Rekhu. Free items earn no royalty.

A sale that is refunded, charged back or taken down earns no royalty; a royalty already paid for it is set off against later royalties.

4. Holding and paying out

A royalty is held for 30 days after the sale, against refunds and takedowns, and then becomes payable.

On the first day of each month Rekhu transfers everything payable to your Stripe account when it is at least $50; a smaller amount waits for the next month. Stripe then pays your bank. Rekhu bears Stripe's payout costs; your bank's own costs are yours.

Royalties are counted in US dollars. Stripe converts to your bank's currency at its rate on the day of the transfer.

5. Taxes and reporting

Royalties are paid gross. You are responsible for your own income tax and, where it applies to you, VAT.

As a platform in the European Union, Rekhu reports sellers' yearly earnings to the Dutch tax authority when the law requires it (DAC7), using the details Stripe collected. You allow Rekhu to do so.

6. What you offer is yours

You confirm that everything you offer is your own work or licensed to you for resale, that offering it breaks no one's rights and no law, and that nothing in it is harmful or misleading.

If a claim is made against Rekhu or a buyer because something you offered was not yours to offer, you bear the cost of it, including refunds and reasonable legal costs.

7. Takedowns and ending

You can withdraw an item at any time; it leaves the marketplace within minutes. Licences already sold stay valid. Royalties already earned are still paid under this agreement.

Rekhu can take down an item that breaks this agreement, the Terms or the law, and can end your seller account for repeated or serious breaches. You can end this agreement at any time by withdrawing everything and telling Rekhu.

8. Changes, liability and law

Rekhu announces changes to this agreement at least 30 days before they apply, by e-mail and on your account. A change to your royalty share never applies to sales made before it. If you do not accept a change, you can end the agreement before it applies.

Rekhu's liability towards you is limited to the royalties of the twelve months before the event, except for intent or gross negligence.

Dutch law applies. Disputes go to the competent court in the Netherlands.

9. Designers: what you grant

Rekhu may show your design in the gallery, check and convert it, let account holders copy it into their library, and let them install it on websites they build. A buyer may use the design, changed or not, on the websites of their own projects and their clients' projects; a buyer may not resell the design as a template.

You keep the copyright and every right not granted here. Copies made before you withdraw a design stay with their owners.

10. Designers: prices, exclusivity and learning

You choose the price of each design from the bands offered, or free. Rekhu may review, refuse or take down a design before or after it is listed.

A design marked exclusive is not offered for sale anywhere else while it is in the gallery. Breaking that returns the design to the standard royalty share from then on.

Only when you choose it on the offer may Rekhu learn from a design, and then from its structure, palette, type and motion, never from the page as a whole.

11. Photographers: what you grant

Rekhu may show your photos in the marketplace, prepare sizes of them, and license them to account holders. A buyer may use a photo, cropped or edited, on the websites they build and in the marketing of those websites, for as long as they like.

A buyer may not resell or give away a photo on its own, use it in a logo or trademark, or use it in a way that is defamatory, pornographic or that suggests a person shown endorses something they do not.

You keep the copyright and every right not granted here.

12. Photographers: people, places and marks

A photo in which a person can be recognised is offered only with a signed model release from that person, and a photo of private property where the law requires it only with a property release. You keep the releases and show them to Rekhu on request within 7 days.

Photos that show trademarks, logos, artworks or other protected work as their subject are not offered, unless you hold the rights to license them.

Descriptions and keywords you add are accurate. A photo that turns out to need a release you do not have is taken down and its sales are refunded.

13. Photographers: prices and exclusivity

You choose the price of each photo or pack from the bands offered, or free. A photo marked exclusive is not offered for sale anywhere else while it is in the marketplace; breaking that returns it to the standard royalty share from then on.
